Dear Mr. Young:

The Attorney General's Office has reviewed your recent inquiry to the Criminal Bureau for the purpose of deciding whether to assign this matter within the Criminal Bureau for a more comprehensive review of the facts, make an inquiry on your behalf, or intervene in this matter.

The Criminal Bureau of the Attorney General's Office receives inquiries and complaints on a daily basis from citizens, police departments and other governmental agencies. Every such inquiry and complaint is reviewed and a decision made whether to take action on the inquiry or complaint. In some instances, inquiries and complaints raise issues which generally are not handled by this office, do not fall within this office's jurisdiction, or are more appropriately handled by another agency.

Please be advised that the Criminal Bureau is not going to further review or take action on your inquiry or complaint. If you wish to pursue this matter, I suggest that you confer with a private attorney about civil remedies that may be available to you.

I am sorry that this office cannot be of further assistance to you.

Sincerely,
